

R – Linear Regression

---

A program that utilizes various characteristics of a Pokémon to predict its overall power.

About the code

---

This project utilizes the Pokémon dataset from Kaggle. The dataset can be found in the Data subfolder. From this data, a new feature was created from the various battle statistics for each Pokémon. A linear model was then built from the remaining features that attempts to predict this newly created power feature.